

EDNA FERBER IS COMING HERE TO TELL EXPERIENCES

Famous Writer, Formerly an Appleton Girl, Will Speak Here Nov. 4

Appleton people who have been proud to say that Edna Ferber got her start in Appleton will have a chance to hear of some of her experiences and to hear her read from some of her stories for she is to appear at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Nov. 4. The English department of Lawrence college has persuaded Miss Ferber to come to Appleton to speak.

Practically every "old timer" in the city can tell some story about Miss Ferber when she was a very young reporter on the Appleton Evening Crescent. Miss Ferber herself tells of some of her experiences with the author of "The Girls," E. M. Phelps of the English department and Prof. W. B. Lindsey of the Journalism department of Lawrence college are anxious to hear all the stories about Miss Ferber which Appleton people can contribute.

It is interesting to note before Miss Ferber's return to her one time home, that Fanny Butcher who writes the "tabloid book review" for the Chicago Tribune wrote on Sunday that she believes that Miss Ferber's latest book, "The Girls," has taken the author out of the class of popular writer and put her in the class which contributes something permanent to literature. Miss Butcher says that she has read the new book twice, once when she was so ill that four other books failed to interest her and again lately and she finds it so human that it cannot fail to survive. When Miss Ferber was in Appleton recently, she said that she enjoyed writing "The Girls," as she enjoys writing all her stories.

Tickets for her lecture have been kept at a reasonable price. Organizations in the college have charge of the ticket sale. Each organization in the city is being asked how many tickets its members will wish to have put aside for them.

MAY LIFT TAX FROM SMALL MOTOR BOATS

Motorboat Owners in North Claim Present Tax Law is Unfair

A modification in the present federal tax on motorboats which would exempt from tax practically all of the pleasure craft on Fox and Wolf rivers and Lake Winnebago is proposed in the senate committee on commerce, according to a letter received here from a Washington authority.

The proposed modification would exempt from the flat annual tax of $10 all boats under five ton capacity and less than 32 feet long. The tax on larger craft will remain unchanged unless modifications are extended before being reported out of the committee.

Yachts, pleasure boats and sailing boats over five tons and motorboats with fixed engines over five tons but not more than 50 feet long must now pay a tax of $1 per foot. If more than five tons and between 50 and 100 feet long they must pay $2 per foot but if they exceed this length they must pay $4 per foot. Motorboats with fixed engines not over five tons now pay a flat tax of $10 and it is the repeal of this provision of the measure which is predicted.

Motorboat owners in the north have long complained that this tax law is unfair because it does not distinguish between boats in northern and boats in southern waters. The southern boat owner may use his craft practically the entire year while in the north pleasure boating is only seasonable about three months out of the twelve. They declare that the tax should be changed to take this situation into account.

YOUTH IS CHAMPION HARD LUCK VICTIM

Walter Sheid Has Been Spending Most of His Time in Hospitals

Walter Sheid, 20, Galesburg, is the champion hard luck victim in his part of the country. He left St. Elizabeth hospital Saturday after having a handful of shot removed from his anatomy. It was the third time he was in a hospital in the last few weeks.

His first trip was about two months ago when he submitted to an operation for appendicitis. He had scarcely recovered when he figured in an automobile accident and returned to have his face sewed up. He was released from the hospital last Thursday and on Friday he was shot by a boy named Ebert in a hunting accident.

Sheid was hurried to Black Creek where physicians removed part of the shot from his body and then he was taken to the hospital where the work was completed. His injuries were not serious and he left the hospital the next day.

INVITATIONS EXTENDED

housewives and gentlemen of our community to visit us during "Visit Your Laundry Week"

OCTOBER 24-29th

We Want the Public to Bear in Mind the MODERN COMPLETELY EQUIPPED LAUNDRY Ranks ELEVENTH in ESSENTIAL INDUSTRIES

Because laundryowners feel that in spite of a vast amount of advertising and considerable other publicity, both favorable and unfavorable, the modern laundry is still an institution about which there is much misunderstanding, they have resolved to throw the doors of their plants open to the public for one week, October 24-29, and to invite everybody to come-in and get acquainted.

Cooperating in this movement are national, state and city associations in all parts of the country. Governors in all the states have been requested to officially proclaim "Visit Your Laundry Week" in the interests of better sanitation and health.

During "Visit Your Laundry" Week, every department of our laundry will be open for inspection. The day's work will proceed as usual, and guests will be given an opportunity to see a modern laundry in operation.

A small but useful souvenir will be given all who call.

AN OPPORTUNITY OF THE FIRST ORDER
Congress is finding readjustment of the tax laws an exceedingly difficult problem. The reason is that because of the financial requirements of the government, the most that can be done is to shift the burdens of taxation, rather than remove them or lessen them. The federal budget for the coming year approximates $4,000,000,000. It is a budget which will not permit a reduction of the present income. This being the case, it is clear that the most congress can do is to shift taxes from one class to another, that is transfer the load from some to the backs of others. The result is that politicians are seeking to bring about changes in taxation favorable to one class of constituents or another. They must meet with the universal demand for action of some kind, but of course their principal thought is to try and please the largest number of those to whom or to whose influence they must look for votes.

It is self-evident that any plan of taxation which impairs profits unduly is neither scientific nor productive. The active prosperity of the country is at a low ebb. Fundamentally we are sound, but temporarily we are resting on the oars. Industry and commerce, along with agriculture, are suffering from a state of depression due to a variety of causes. One of these causes, and perhaps not the least, is the excessive taxation to which business is subjected. In many fields we find enterprise operating without profit, or taking into consideration the demand of the government for revenue, unable to maintain and expand itself adequately. The prosperity of the people at large will be possible only when the sources from which it flows are functioning normally and profitably. Governmental policies can only be regarded as constructive when they are helpful to a restoration of sound commercial and industrial conditions. Neither the consumer nor the producer must be taxed inordinately, since the former cannot be impoverished to the point where he leaves the market nor the latter to the point where he is unable to produce profitably. The burden must be equalized rationally so that it will stimulate both production and consumption. In any readjustment, however, it is imperative that the real status and necessities of productive enterprise be taken into account. That lies at the bottom of the demand for a repeal of the excess profits tax, to which parties are committed, as well as for a reduction of other surtaxes.

Primarily, the need is to reduce the federal budget. We must have economy all along the line in federal appropriations and more particularly in the huge amount spent on the military establishment. If the government continues to spend $4,000,000,000 or more a year there can be no relief from taxation. Somebody must pay the bill, and that somebody is the American people. It does not matter whether it is paid in the first instance by corporations, in the last instance it will be paid by the individual, by the consumer as a class. The hope of the people lies in a bonafide consideration of the question of disarmament at the international conference at Washington next month. If the will of the people prevails there will be a genuine reduction of armaments, and a start made toward the emancipation of humanity from the back-breaking load it is carrying to pay for past and provide for future wars. It is doubtful if we can expect any scientific results from the maneuverings of politicians in congress. Their chief aim is to maintain their fences intact. To this they invariably subordinate the business of government. If there ever was a time public opinion should make itself felt, it is when the international conference on disarmament meets at Washington on November 11th. It is an opportunity of the first order to promote human welfare.

EINSTEIN UNDER FIRE
The Einstein theory of relativity is not new, according to Professor Mathias of the Nordjenskind observatory, who alleges that the modern German scientist appropriated his ideas from the works of Professor Sohnberg of Heidelberg. Paris savants are taking sides in the controversy, and most of them are supporting Einstein. Sohnberg a century ago advanced the theory that both time and space were nonexistent. Mathias holds that Sohnberg proved these scientific discoveries. It is scarcely fair to charge a serious investigator with dishonesty. Such an accusation is unjustifiable. In all likelihood, Einstein had not heard of Sohnberg or the Sohnberg theories.

It happens more often than not that several persons express the same thoughts at or nearly at the same time, and several persons carry on the same investigations simultaneously. Sohnberg may have reached the identical conclusions recently announced by Einstein, yet Einstein no doubt elaborated his theories of his own initiative.

MOVIES ADOPTED IN CHICAGO SCHOOLS
Geography, history, physiology and other studies will be taught this year in the Chicago public schools with motion pictures. Authorities hold that children obtain seventy-five to ninety per cent of their information with their eyes, and visual education is deemed to be more practical than any other method.

Chicago's action is not an innovation. Motion pictures have been used for several years in the largest universities and in a number of colleges and academies in the projection system of teaching. And an institution in Washington has been furnishing informative films, free, for a few years, to societies and institutions. In fact, the motion picture companies have produced thousands of most valuable educational films.

Many subjects may be taught better with motion pictures than by lectures or lessons. It is most difficult, for instance, to describe industrial processes so that they may be easily and clearly understood, whereas motion pictures visualize them as they are. The story of wheat is illustrated better in pictures than it is told in lecture or written in a text book. The spectator sees the whole process from the sowing of the seed to the harvesting of the wheat, from the transportation of the grain to the elevator and the milling, and from the sacking of the flour to the making of bread.

On the other hand, fundamentals cannot be taught with pictures. Visual education is incidental, and it has the demerit of cultivating intellectual laziness. The text book, the lesson and the lecture will continue to be the basic means of imparting knowledge and training the mind to function.

FRANCE FLIRTS WITH US
In Paris they are urging a "Franco-American naval alliance." Frenchmen are telling us that we have, or could build, a very great navy. The inference is that it should be a very mighty navy; mightier than England's; greater even than the combined and coalesced fleets of King George and the Mikado.

For, imply and infer and state, these men of France: if you will do this, we will not give a hang about England's sword and buckler, which is also the British spearhead—the navy of Great Britain. Paris is taking pains to show us that "naval power is established in two essential principles—that is, a fleet and a base." That is axiomatic. Admiral Hahan would have been in agreement.

All this is flattering to the United States. We like France. We like her as a friend in peace and as a fighting sweetheart in war. It lifts us up in our own estimation to be flattered in this way. The great trouble about it is this: The American does not want such an alliance. It is a compliment to America, but America will decline with thanks. It is America's way—PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEDGER (Ind.)

THE HAPPY LAND
In the country of Joia, the King of Fumban, Life runs on an easy and casual plan; Though Joia's a despot, he's fond of his ease And mostly his people do just as they please; The Juice of the palm tree for drink they distill And each man has all of the wives that he will; (And one is enough for the average man) In the country of Joia, the King of Fumban, In the country of Joia, the King of Fumban, You needn't wear much save a coating a tan, You live in a hut and are warm and content And nobody ever pays anyone rent. You cultivate pams a few minutes a day, The rest of the time is devoted to play; You hunt and you fish and you dance all you can, In the country of Joia, the King of Fumban, There aren't any politics troubling the clan, The King is the boss—there's no more to be said— And if you dispute it, why off goes your head; But mostly life moves in beneficent calm, And often I long to be under a palm Where life's still as simple as when it began, In the country of Joia, the King of Fumban!

MARRY EARLY AND OFTEN
Some middle west professor—it seems only in the middle west and far west that our professors make any stir in the world these days—has written a book in which he attempts to show that, whereas the youngest or last born child in families of respectable size is generally the one with the highest intellectual endowment, and whereas such children are born when the parents are pretty well matured—up around 50—therefore be it resolved that we discourage the marriage of young folks and urge upon the latter the wisdom of deferring this experiment until life is a matter chiefly of retrospection—and regret.

You see, the professor clashes with the Darwinian conception of the survival of the fittest, or something like that. At least he says he does, though I couldn't get it through my head where the clash came in, for it seemed clear that the professor was advocating late marriage in order to eliminate the comparatively weak minded first born and increase the supply of intellectuals in the world. He holds that as parents they learn, and by the time they arrive at midday they are pretty well educated, and children born of educated parents are more intellectual than children born of parents who are weak minded.

The professor cites a list of famous intellectuals who were the youngest children of large families. Of course pizyune, one to three child families do not count.

Far be it from me to enter the lists against a college professor, but nevertheless I advise young people to marry early, and if necessary, often. I stand with Mr. Darwin or fall with him, if fall we must.

As I have mentioned on previous occasions, about one-third of our entire population is child minded. The professor assumes that life itself is an education and that after 30 or 40 years of life these child minds will become adult minds. Maybe so. I don't think they will, for I have seen too much evidence that they remain child minds.

No, boys and girls, don't wait. It is a bad business. Don't try to accumulate a fortune or pay for a home or complete your life work or attain success in your career before you marry. Marry poor and young and be happy. Reasonably young, I mean. The ideal age for marriage is 23 to 30 years, preferably 23.

Of course there are girls who make helpmeets and girls who become burdens. A poor young man cannot afford to assume a liability. Pick a girl with a bit of good sound gray matter as well as good looks. One who can cook and sew; one whose aim is to keep house, and not to employ a maid to do it for her; one who can and does make much of her own clothing; one who has some style, class and pep of her own, not the ready made sort. These are exceedingly elementary tests of a girl's marriageability, to be sure, but take it from the doctor, children, they are sound tests.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
The Will of the Wisp
What about the idea of going out west as an insurance agent? T. E. R. C. S.

Answer—Tuberculosis is quite as prevalent out west and up north as it is back east or down south. Climate has precious little relation to the prevalence of tuberculosis or of the victim's chances for recovery. The question is, will the victim live the greatest number of hours at rest in the open air? Experience has amply proved that one may recover quite as certainly and quite as quickly at home—be it back east, up north, down south or out west—as anywhere else—provided—and this is the crux of the problem—provided he has the constant attendance and care of a good doctor.

Pasteurization
Please inform me whether the food value of pasteurized milk is diminished by pasteurization. Does milk affect the joints in any way? C. E. R.

Answer—Pasteurization means heating the milk or other food up to 140 degrees F. (60 degrees C.), holding at that temperature half an hour, then cooling. It destroys most disease germs, but not the harmless bacteria. It diminishes the vitamin contents of the milk. It probably renders the milk less suitable for assimilation. Therefore pure milk handled in a cleanly way from first to last is always preferable to pasteurized milk, if pure milk is available, especially for children and babies. I know of no effect milk has on the joints.

Twenty-Five Years Ago
Monday, Oct. 19, 1896

Fred Hammel was in Chicago on business. Attorney A. M. Spencer was attending court at Springfield.

Irvin Strauss of Ripon was visiting his parents and sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Ramsay entertained a group of young people in honor of their guests, the Misses Kaufman of Marquette.

The freshman class at Lawrence university was the largest in the history of that institution. The stock of merchandise belonging to the estate of Frank Wolman was being appraised and was about to be sold by an order of the court.

M. J. Woodard, who had been visiting his brother, D. J. Woodard, and sister, Mrs. C. H. Ferry, returned home to Watertown.

Miss Selma Silverfriend was to graduate the day following from the Wisconsin Training School for Nurses, where she had taken a complete course.

The Neenah and Menasha Water Power Co. decided to let down about twice the quantity of water that had been going through the wheels of the local mills. This was done in order to take advantage of the water in the marches which would soon be locked up by freezing.

Physicians reported that grip was becoming epidemic in Appleton and that a large number of cases were being reported daily.

The Appleton Screen Plate Co. announced it was ready to store bicycles for the winter.

EXTRA-LEGAL JUSTICE
Judge Ben B. Lindsey's refusal to pass sentence of conviction on two dry-law violators, on the ground that such procedure would be unjust in view of the reported immunity of rich offenders, is a judicial departure that does not invite emulation. While Judge Lindsey has worked many violations in the application of justice that are worth following, in this instance he has clearly gone beyond the judicial province. Justice is not a comparative thing. One is not to be held relative to those persecuted by others. The fact that one murderer evades justice is no reason for turning the next murderer loose. Even if rich citizens of Denver do enjoy certain immunity from the prohibition law, this is no reason for judicial practice that virtually invites the poor to go and do likewise.

It is for judges as well as for all others to realize that changes in the law can be effected only by those vested with legislative right, and pending such changes it is Judge Lindsey's as well as every other judge's duty to enforce the law as he finds it.

The Weather Prophets
By Frederic J. Haskin
Washington. — "We are going to have a hard winter this year." You hear a lot of amateur prophets to this effect, and a few to the contrary. Some base their predictions on the way the squirrels are piling up nuts and some on the report that muskrats have thick fur, and some on the fact that ducks have come South sooner than usual.

The government attaches no significance to special industry on the part of squirrels, or to any of these other things. Nor does it consider reports of early flight of birds to the south a true warning that winter will set in sooner than usual. The government biologist and meteorologist regard these phenomena as interesting but no more to be relied upon than the pretty story of the ground hog and his shadow.

"The fact is," says Dr. A. K. Fisher, of the Biological Survey "we have no proof that animals are supplied in advance with instinctive warnings of storms or cold weather. On the other hand, there is a good deal of proof that they do not know in advance about weather conditions. If they did, there would be fewer catastrophes in the animal world."

"Weather changes often overtake birds, for instance, with tragic results. If birds could sense storms far ahead we would not hear of 3,000,000 Lapland longspurs being beaten to the ground in a driving storm in Minnesota. This incident occurred in the spring when these birds were flying north. They were caught in the gale. After it was over, ornithologists measured the area of the frozen lake where the birds lay dead and then counted the birds to a square yard. According to careful estimate, 3,000,000 were wiped out that day. When birds do seek shelter in a storm it is generally because they can no longer keep up in the air, not because they sense the storm's approach."

Early migration of birds is commonly accepted as an infallible sign that winter may be expected at once. Birds really migrate, Dr. Fisher says, not because they sense cold, but because the food supply is disappearing.

When they migrate sooner than usual in the fall it may mean that winter is setting in and destroying their chances of getting food, or it may mean that less of the food needed by those particular birds is available. Or, as a third supposition, there may be unusually large flocks of the birds in a locality and the food supply is not lasting so long as usual.

What Makes Fur Grow
By the same specious reasoning, it is sometimes asserted that animals are provided with thicker fur in preparation for a severe winter. The facts, so far as science has studied them, are that animals do have thicker fur in cold winters. Animals in very cold climates have thicker coats than similar species farther south. This is a well-recognized fact in the fur trade, where furs from the far North bring much higher prices than furs from warmer latitudes.

The overlooked fact here is that the warmer coat is furnished by nature after the cold sets in, not before. Roughly speaking, the cold stimulates the skin to produce thicker fur. Yet reports of thicker fur on animals in the early fall are widely regarded as a sure sign of the weather ahead.

Government scientists have never made any experiments of changing animals from one climate to another to test their adaptability in this respect. It is believed that a Louisiana muskrat, for example, might freeze to death if taken to a cold climate because his skin would probably not react quickly enough to clothe him properly the first winter. If he survived that year the next year he would probably adapt himself like the other animals of the region, and this is problematical. Even so, it is certain that he would not grow his thicker fur in advance.

These are short range predictions. Human beings cannot be relied upon to gauge the weather more than a day or two ahead, so the meteorologists insist. And the same is true of the creatures of the animal world.

The squirrel in the autumn hides as many nuts as he can find, not as many as he figures he will need for a long or short winter. Unusual activity of bees does not necessarily mean that they anticipate a long winter either. In southern California bees collect honey all year round as busily as if a long, cold winter was about to set in any minute.

More credible is the statement that cattle are restless just before a storm. Human beings are similarly sensitive to the electricity in the air and the unusual wind—either hot or chilling—which often precedes storms.

But as far as the coming winter, or any winter is concerned, one or two signs is as good as another. If you take the advice of the government experts, you won't buy your coal or your winter overcoat on the strength of the squirrels' antics or the strangely significant acorn crop.

THE QUESTION BOX

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medical, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research work. Q. How much does balsam wood weigh? C. C. G.

A. Balsam wood weighs 64 pounds per cubic foot.

Q. What is the basis for the claim that the Government should pay the wage increase given to employees of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation? R. B. R.

A. The Bethlehem Steel Corporation had a contract with the Government during the war by which the company was not liable for increased costs of production for which they were not responsible. The wage increase referred to was made by a governmental agency, the National War Labor Board. The War Department has ruled that it cannot allow this claim legally, and representatives of unions, some of whose members are in the Bethlehem Steel plant, are now endeavoring to ask Congress to make an appropriation to meet this obligation.

Q. What food ads time to the body? F. H. L.

A. Milk is the chief food for infants. It is used especially in the bones and teeth, but is also found in other tissues, and in the blood. Lack of milk in the diet causes soft teeth and poor bones.

Q. What and where are the high and lowest points of land in Europe? A. E. D.

A. The highest point of land in Europe is Mt. Blanc, 15,782 feet. The lowest is the region adjoining the sea level. Regarding the latitude, the highest point is the North Cape, 71 degrees 11' N.; the lowest, Cape Tarifa, Spain, 36 degrees 'N.

A Resume of American Newspaper Opinion

The Victory of the Bloc.
The "agricultural bloc" in the Senate has again struck fire from editorial writers by forcing a compromise on the tax bill which, while defended in some papers, is decidedly unpopular in many of them. The increase to fifty per cent of the surtax on incomes of the highest group, instead of the thirty-two per cent provided in the House bill, is condemned by many editors as upholding the demagogic principle of "punishing wealth" and, from a more practical viewpoint, as continuing the evil of diverting an enormous amount of money from productive use into tax exempt securities. The "surrender" of the Senate Finance Committee to the farm element is generally regarded as a political expedient which ignores "sound principles of taxation." Some writers, however, seem to feel that nothing could make the tax bill any worse than it is, and that a political expedient will at least have the advantage of hastening its passage and ending the present uncertainty and confusion. The incident occasions further editorial denunciation of the "agricultural bloc" and is held up as a concrete example of the menace of that group and its kind.

That small but active organization apparently conceives "that it must do duty as a chopping block for taxes such as the agricultural regions may have to pay, and a chopping block for taxes that fall on the manufacturing and commercial portions of the country." The BALTIMORE AMERICAN (Rep.) remarks. Since, according to the NEW YORK WORLD (Dem.), the Finance Committee had prepared a bill which favored the big corporations and the possessors of large incomes, the agricultural bloc "revolted and delivered an ultimatum" which resulted in a recasting of the measure which will soften the dissatisfaction of the farmers." And in spite of the fact, the WORLD continues, that recent dispatches from Washington declared that "Mr. Harding did not approve of taxes and things of the sort and did not purpose to tolerate any of them," when this ultimatum came "Mr. Harding was the first to surrender." The inescapable conclusion, as the paper sees it, is that "Congress is playing politics with taxation, and that is all it intends to do." The NEW YORK TRIBUNE (Rep.) agrees that in accepting the "changes for the worse" which the insurgent group has forced upon the Committee, sound principles of taxation are being departed from at the behest of political expediency.

Acceptance of the proposal to increase income surtax from thirty-two per cent to fifty per cent, "to satisfy the insistence of the class-conscious agricultural bloc that taxation must be punitive on the rich," is not a "compromise," declares the NEW YORK NEWS (Ind.) It is a "rank surrender" which makes it appear that "the great Republican party, which used to pride itself upon its ability to think straight" has gone over "top and baggage" to a North-eastern stranger in the Western and Southwestern "grangerism" that so long was a millstone about the neck of the Democratic party.

By entertaining "the delusion that they are taxing wealth" through increased income surtax farmers the PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN (Ind. Rep.) believes, "perish in ignoring the fact that so long as exorbitant surtaxes prevail, capital will seek fields of investment which are exempt from income taxation rather than fields of production and necessary enterprise." The BROOKLYN EAGLE (Ind. Dem.) agrees that "the rich are quite capable of taking care of themselves," merely by changing their holdings "from the taxable to the exempt," hence "others must take up what they fall to contribute, and these others are less fortunately situated financially."

Printing Without Type
The successful experiment of producing newspapers and periodicals by means of photography instead of printing invoked during printers' strikes in America and England some months ago, has led at least three inventors to attempt to find means for abolishing permanently the metal-type method of publishing, says the LONDON OBSERVER, in an interesting article in which it predicts the ultimate displacement of paper machine moulds, type-setting machines, and stereotype plates from the publishing business. Should the inventors succeed, a machine not bigger than a typewriter will replace the linotype, and its product will be transferred direct, or almost direct, to the paper sheet by photography.

"Once a simple art, printing is now one of the most complicated, involving many different processes and mechanical devices," says the paper. "To print a newspaper one hundred years ago, metal type was set up by hand, was inked, was pressed into contact with paper and the sheet was printed. Today the type is cast in metal by one machine (a machine that is almost capable of thought; from the metal type a rubber machine mould is taken, and from that mould the type is again cast in metal in the form of a plate by another machine, and from that plate the sheet is printed by a third and very complicated machine—at least, three machines instead of one, and at least four principal operations instead of two."

"The compromise program 'is not much worse' in respect of some provisions than the Penrose and Fordney measure," says the NEW YORK HERALD (Ind.) and "in respect of others it might be called better," and however haphazard the result, the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL (Ind.) points out that "sacrifices of intelligent principle are often necessary to expedite congressional law-making, and it was never more apparent than now that the right thing is to complete the legislation speedily."

Adventures of the Twins

NO RAIN

Wally Woodchuck and his wife continued on their way toward the blue mountain, stopping every few minutes for a drink at a spring or a brook. "My, it's a long way off," said Wally at last. "When we started I thought it was just across about three fields, but we've passed about a hundred, and we're not half way there yet. Come on, Mrs. Wally, we'll get there sometime, I suppose, as it's getting bigger and higher all the time. That's what I heard Scramble Squirrel say once. The nearer you are to anything, the bigger it gets."

"If it wasn't for getting a nibble at that good frosting," panted Mrs. Wally, "I don't believe that I could hold out. My feet are getting dreadfully sore."

"Oh, you're all right," Wally assured her. "Come on. As long as it doesn't rain we're all right. But I don't suppose it will, as Mr. Sprinkle Blow promised me dry weather."

There! I'm thirsty again. I'll have to have another drink."

So they hunted another spring, but it had very little water in it. Indeed they soon drank it all up.

After while they were thirsty again, and hunted three springs before they found one with water in it. "My!" declared Wally. "I wonder what's wrong. But we'll be there soon, now, I'm sure. The blue mountain is changing to brown and that's a sign. It must be chocolate cake with white icing. Um, yum! Let's hurry, Mrs. Woodchuck."

"So they hurried, but poor Mrs. Woodchuck's feet were VERY sore. "The ground seems extra hard!" she complained. "Oh, everything's all right just so long as it doesn't rain," said Wally. But the next time they hunted for a drink, they couldn't find any water AT ALL! The springs and the creeks were as dry as the teacher's chalk. (To Be Continued)

Tempting Desserts

Rich desserts can be made with nuts. With a dessert of this kind the main part of the dinner should be rather light.

Almond Cake
Peanuts are perhaps the least desirable nut to use for desserts as they are highly flavored and don't blend quite so smoothly. Almonds should be blanched before using, as the thick skin is hard to digest. To blanch almonds cover with boiling water and let stand two or three minutes. Drain and dip in cold water for a few minutes. The skins will slip off easily. Dry thoroughly before using in any way.

Emergency Pudding
One half cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons milk, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon butter, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 cup blanched almonds.

Dissolve sugar and milk over a very slow fire to prevent burning. Dissolve soda in 1 tablespoonful of warm water and stir in melted sugar. Add milk and butter and stir in cornstarch dissolved in a little milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Stir in nuts and let cool a few minutes before serving. Serve with whipped cream.

Almond Charlotte
One cup blanched almonds, ½ cup sugar, 2 cups milk, 3 eggs, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Melt half the sugar in a frying pan. Add the almonds and stir until light brown. Cool and pound with a wooden potato masher until smooth. If you have an aluminum double boiler, brown the almonds in it. Put almonds in double boiler and add 1½ cups of the milk. Heat slowly to the boiling point, but do not let boil. Beat the yolks of the eggs with the rest of the milk. Mix with the remaining half cup of milk and stir into the mixture thickens. Dissolve gelatin in ¼ cup boiling water. Pour first mixture slowly over gelatin, mixing thoroughly. Stir until the gelatin is perfectly dissolved. When cool fold in the whites of the eggs beaten till stiff and dry. Turn into a mold and put on ice until chilled and firm.

Nuts can be chopped fine and stirred into any ice cream when the cream is about half frozen. Serve a nut cream with a plain sponge cake and a plain cream with a nut cake.

Nut Cake
Two cups sugar, ½ cup butter, 1 cup sweet milk, 3 cups flour, 4 eggs (whites), 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup chopped hickory nuts or English walnuts.

Cream butter and sugar. Sift in a little flour and beat well. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder and add alternately with milk to first mixture. Add nuts and vanilla and fold in the whites of the eggs beaten stiff and dry. Bake in layers and put together with a white boiled frosting.

SMOKE NUISANCE WILL BE DISCUSSION SUBJECT

The meeting of the Civics department of the Appleton Women's club will be at the regular time, 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the vocational school rather than on Tuesday as it was announced. "The smoke nuisance in Appleton and Other Cities" will be discussed. Mrs. A. C. Remley is chairman of the program. The speakers will include Mrs. Charles Marston, Mrs. J. J. Ellsworth, Mrs. Louis Bonini, Mrs. J. H. Tippett, Mrs. Eugene Colvin. Each speaker will take up one phase of the problem.

The Misses Thelma Hoffman, Olivia Baker, Eva Helgeson and Winnifred Hartgerink, students at Lawrence college spent the weekend at Waupun.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM LOSES TO OCONTO

Triple Pass Baffles Kaukauna—Hear Report of Woman's Convention

Kaukauna—Completely baffled by a triple pass, Kaukauna high was defeated Saturday afternoon at Oconto by a score of 42 and 3. Although outwitted by the Oconto players, the orange and black held like a wall and the northerners could only gain by the trick pass method.

Kaukauna received the kickoff and immediately began to carry out their intentions of playing Oconto off its feet. The Kaukauna line went down the field in great style until it reached Oconto's 25 yard line where it was halted by a sudden lightning up of the defense. Unable to gain, Luckow stopped back and dropped the ball nearly over the crossbar.

Using the play in which three men carried the ball, the northerners ate up the ground. Kaukauna seemed unable to learn the trick and it was pulled again and again with success.

WILL DRAFT CODE FOR STONE QUARRY WORKERS

Madison—Public hearings in three cities are announced by the industrial commission on proposed general orders on quarries. These hearings will be held Oct. 26 at Wausau, Oct. 27 at Fond du Lac, and Nov. 2 at Milwaukee. At these hearings consideration will be given to a proposed quarry code, which has been drafted by an advisory committee composed of representative quarrymen of the state. The members of this committee are F. C. Wolf, Waukesha; C. S. Richter, Montello; R. W. Scherer, Milwaukee; William Wisko, Red Granite; William Stockman, Appleton; John Stewart, Red Granite; A. H. Findelsen, Madison.

Quarrying is an important industry in Wisconsin, employing, in normal times, in excess of five thousand men. The quarries in Wisconsin are distributed throughout the state, but center around Fond du Lac. Heretofore there has been no safety code governing quarry work, and the accident rate has been high, particularly with reference to eye injuries. Most of the quarrying in Wisconsin is done in the open and, consequently, it is believed that with more intensive safety work, accidents will be very materially reduced.

TRENCH DIGGERS FIND WINE; FORGET WORK

Green Bay—This is a story for parched tongues and dusty throats.

Workmen were digging a trench for new gas mains on Green Bay's west side. All of a sudden, as the story tells, a pick hit something that rang like a bell.

When the excitement was over it looked to the time keeper as if his game had been digging for gold. Two bottles of wine had been unearthed and all records for industry were broken in a search for the balance of the case.

Although the beverage turned out to be, not sparkling Burgundy, but candied wine of recent brew, it was reported to have had sufficient kick to take the workmen off the job the rest of the day.

HIGH VALUES KEEP PEOPLE OFF FARMS

Edward Nordman Believes Farmer and City Man Would Benefit by Land Drop

Madison—The popular belief that high prices of land are beneficial to the farmer is a prejudice which is not founded on facts and which greatly hampers the efforts of those agencies whose object it is to improve the condition of agriculture declares Edward Nordman, commissioner of markets. In a statement, Farmers must bear in mind that high priced land means low prices of farm products and that land values must come down if the business of farming is to take a turn for the better.

Inflated land values in the country have the same effect on the farmer's market as inflated land values in the city. High priced land makes farming inaccessible. It prevents those who are capable of farming from going out on the land. It crowds industries with more workmen than are needed, creates an oversupply of labor, reduces wages and earnings and causes a permanent condition of unemployment. The purchasing power of city workers is decreased and the products of the farm do not find any market for the simple reason that the source of the farmer's market is the buying ability of the city people.

The only way to remedy this condition is to give the city worker an opportunity to gain access to the land. Every man that leaves the city gives an opportunity to the man remaining in the city to earn more and to buy more, thus creating a greater demand for farm products. The man who leaves for the country to work on the land creates a greater demand for manufactured commodities thus stimulating industrial production. Greater industrial production causes a greater demand for raw materials which are furnished by agriculture.

BOAT CAPSIZES; DUCK HUNTERS NEAR DEATH

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revolution if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store, all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

DO YOU CATCH COLD EASILY?

HOW TO AVOID IT

Colds are due to germs. No one can protect the germs from getting into your nose and throat. But you can help keep plenty of strong, vigorous, "antibodies" in your blood to fight and kill off the nasty "cold germs" before they do you any harm.

To develop these germ destroying "antibodies" properly, you must have plenty of pure, rich, red blood and a strong, vigorous constitution—in fact, this is the best preventive against almost any disease.

If you are weak, nervous or run down, or subject to colds, take no chances. One day you may develop serious throat, bronchial or lung trouble or perhaps pneumonia and you may go off like a shot. Therefore commence to enrich your blood and fortify yourself against "disease germs" today. To build more and better blood and make stronger nerves, there is nothing superior to NUXATED IRON as it contains organic iron like the iron in your blood combined with a product representing the principal chemical constituent of active living nerve force for feeding the nerves. Nuxated Iron may therefore be said to be both a blood and a nerve food. It often increases the bodily and mental vigor, strength and endurance in two weeks' time.

Over 4,000,000 people are using it annually. It has been endorsed by former United States Senators, U.S. Army Generals, many physicians and prominent men. Even the Pope at Rome mentioned it favorably in a communication to the Proprietor of the Pharmacy Normale of Paris.

Satisfaction guaranteed or the manufacturer will refund your money. Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "NUXATED" on every package and the letters N.I. on every tablet. Sold by all druggists.

Electrification of Trunk Lines Said to be Next Step in Rail Progress

Special to Post-Crescent

Washington.—Electricity before many years will replace steam in running trunk line railways between Chicago and the Atlantic seaboard as soon as industrial and financial conditions become stable, federal power experts say.

Niagara Falls' vast power resources have hardly been tapped. A new plant now on the Canadian side has a capacity of 400,000 horsepower. And the capacity of plants on the American side easily can be increased to 1,000,000 horsepower.

A War Department engineer recently estimated that 80,000 cubic feet of water could be diverted from the falls for power purposes every second without taking from the appearance of the falls.

Trunk roads would have been well on their way to electrification before the end of this year if they had not been hindered by war time and post-war conditions.

Only two barriers stand in the way of rail electrification today. They are:

ONE—Financing the project.

TWO—Arranging rights of way for carrying current from Niagara.

Cost of electrification will be around $50,000 a mile.

But use of electricity would bring about immediate economies, and the money thus saved could be used in retiring bonds.

Electrification doesn't mean that present rail equipment will be junked. It will be transferred from the electrified trunk lines to the steam branch lines where it will replace old equipment.

Oshkosh Normal Trims Lawrence In A Poorly Played Game, 3 To 0

Yellow Jerseyed Team Outplays Lawrence and Grabs Scant Victory — Lawrence Team Makes Sorry Showing Against Lighter Squad.

With three or four of its regulars on the side lines because of injuries, Lawrence college football team went down to defeat by a 3 to 0 score before Oshkosh Normal school at Lawrence field Saturday afternoon. It was a heart-breaking game but it was evident from the very start that Lawrence was in for a hard fight and would be lucky if it escaped a beating.

It was one of the most featureless games ever played here. Neither side was able to gain with any degree of consistency; more forward passes were broken up than were completed; most gains were entirely missing and most of the play was in the middle of the field.

Oshkosh scored its three points at the start of the third quarter when Paul dropkicked from the 27-yard line. That was the only real chance that the visitors had to score although a few drop kicks and kicks from placements were attempted. Lawrence had two or three fairly good chances to score but lost all of them through careless playing. Doering tried seven drop-kicks and all of them failed. The majority were from beyond the 30-yard line.

The vaunted Lawrence line, weakened by the absence of Huntling, McGlynn, Kiesling and Blackbuns, was hardly a match for the visitors who were much lighter.

The Blue and White backfield, except at rare intervals, did not measure up to the Oshkosh backs.

Lawrence Outlucked

Breaks in luck were all against the local eleven except possibly in the first quarter when the visitors were penalized half the distance to their goal for unnecessary roughing. In the other periods fumbles and misplays went to the advantage of the teachers.

Lawrence depended almost entirely on straight football while Oshkosh made most of its gains on end runs and a few passes. Only once or twice did McChesney's crew gain ground by skirting the ends while McAndrews, the speedy Oshkosh back, ran for twenty or thirty yards two or three times. Lawrence made first downs five times during the game and the teachers made the required distance only four times. Neither team could gain through the other's line, end runs were smashed and bootlegging failed to punctuate. "Basing had the better of the play with Paul and Lof, the Oshkosh kickers."

An intercepted forward pass by Kubitz, followed by a successful pass to Goan in the last quarter threatened the Oshkosh goal but the visitors held with their 25 yard line, a drop kick failed and the last chance to score went glimmering. A few times the Lawrence goal was endangered by failure to hold punts.

Ziebell's work at quarterback was nothing to boast of. The team was mixed up in its signals several times and he played rather ragged on the defensive. His failure to catch punts looked bad several times. None of the backfield men, with the possible exception of Kubitz, who was in the last quarter, and Goan, were able to do much of anything with the visitors.

Smith is Star

Captain Bill Smith was almost the whole show on the defense. He tackled hard and was in nearly every play. Doering ably assisted him by spilling many an Oshkosh play before it got started. The visitors could not gain around his end. Normington apparently was pretty well covered by the visitors but Stark strengthened that side of the line when he got into the game.

Doering's failure to make good use of his many opportunities to drop kick lost the game for Lawrence, in a way. The line, however, did not hold back the visitors long enough for the dropkick to get set for the play in most of the chances.

Oshkosh used a number of spread plays in the last quarter and made a few gains by passes. Lawrence used only a few plays and did not attempt to open up in a last minute attack, depending on a forward pass play which surely must have been evident to the opponents.

The lineup:

Lawrence—Smith, center; Ketchum and Sorenson, tackles; Broten and E. Huntling, guards; Normington and Doering, ends; Goan, Kubitz, Barry, Boettcher, halfbacks; Basing fullback; Ziebell, quarterback.

Oshkosh—Devine, center; Taylor and Edick, guards; Hall and Schmidt, tackles; McDonald and Jensen, ends; McAndrews and Lof, halfbacks; Paul and Olson, fullbacks.

AWARD EMBLEMS TO SIX SOLDIER CAGE SQUADS

Maureen—Six sterling silver basketball fobs have been sent to each of the teams winning first places in the various National Guard basketball districts last season. Last spring the basketball committee decided that the season had extended too late to hold a state tournament and recently the committee decided to award the winners of each district. They are Machine Gun Troop, Milwaukee; Company "L," 128th Infantry, Beloit; Company "A," 128th Infantry, Menomonee; Supply Battery, 121st Field Artillery, Hartford; Motor Transport Company, No. 113, New London; Company "B," 127th Infantry, Rhineclander; and Company "C," 127th Infantry, Manitowish.

Each organization in the guard has been requested to report by October 20, 1921 as to whether they desire a tournament this year.

YANK STARS DEFENDERS' ORDERS

Ruth and Pals Play With Barnstormers in Spite of Judge's Ban

By United Press Leased Wire
Buffalo, N. Y.—Dofying Judge Landis, high commissioner of baseball, Babe Ruth Monday left for Elmira on his barnstorming trip.

Judge Landis ruled that no member of the Yankees or Giants—the world's series teams—could participate in post season games.

Directly challenging Landis' authority, Ruth, Bill Pierce, Tom Sheehan and Bob Meusel, all of the Yankees, took part in a game against the Polish Nationals here yesterday.

"I have done my duty to the American league," Ruth said. "It is against organized baseball law that I am in the 'off season.' I think it is unfair, unjust and un-American. We will continue our tour."

Pierce, Sheehan and Meusel announced emphatically that they entirely agreed with Ruth.

Ruth, playing here yesterday, did not appear handicapped by the infected arm which forced his withdrawal from the world series. He poked one home run. His team won 4 to 2. They played on a sand lot, as the International league park was barred to them.

Kaukauna IN EASY WIN OVER KEWAUNEE

American Legion Team Tramples Over Visitors in 48 to 0 Victory

Kaukauna. — Kaukauna American legion was an easy victor Sunday afternoon over Kewaunee. The score was 48 to 0. After the first half neither side showed much pep. Schrader and Rennieke especially distinguished themselves although all the men played well. Schrader, right half back, made three long end runs from the 35 yard line, twice placing the ball a few yards from the line and once going over with it, besides intercepting a forward pass on the 40 yard line and going through for a touchdown. Rennieke, center, played a stellar game as usual.

Kewaunee was considerably outwheeled but showed experience in tackling and defensive work. The visitors made first down not more than four times, and twice they gained their yards on successful passes.

A surprise was sprung when "Conney" Brenzel, regular end, took the quarterback position at the beginning of the game in place of Lundauer. Brenzel handled the team like a veteran and piloted the team over the goal line three times in the first quarter. Lundauer did not go into the scrimmage until the beginning of the last quarter.

STAGG WOULD BORROW BADGER'S BIG LINE

Chicago. — As Coach Richards of Wisconsin was talking with friends after the Northwestern game on Saturday while awaiting for the Badgers to emerge from their dressing room, Director Stagg of Chicago joined the circle and offered his congratulations.

Richards in return assured Stagg the Badgers were pulling for Chicago against Princeton next Saturday and wished him good luck.

"I'd like to borrow your line for that game," Stagg answered.

"I'll trade our line for your line any time you say," was Richard's comeback.

"Well, the deal is closed right now, then," laughed Stagg.

Won't Princeton be surprised to see the Badger linemen playing before the Maroon backs?

DEMPEY AND JESS ARE SIGNED BY RICKARD

Chicago—Arrangements have been completed for a match between Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight boxing champion, and Jess Willard former champion, either in New York or Jersey City, N. J. next spring Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager announced Sunday night.

Kearns said he had been informed by Tex Rickard that the New York promoter had Willard's signed contract.

"Accepted Mr. Rickard's offer and notified him that I am willing to sign for Dempsey at any time," said Kearns.

HIGH SCHOOL WINS FROM FRESHMEN IN WELL PLAYED GAME

Dropkick in Last Few Seconds of Play Gives Victory to Preps

Appleton high school, playing in championship style, defeated Lawrence freshmen, 3 to 0, in a well played game at Lawrence field Saturday afternoon, just before the Oshkosh-Lawrence fracas. Roach scored the high school's three points with a drop kick from 15-yard line in the last seconds of the play. The whistle ended the game almost immediately after the kick.

Both teams battled on even terms for nearly the entire game. The high school was outwheeled but played a lucky, fighting game which kept the freshmen guessing.

Failure of the freshmen to punt out of danger when they were pushed back into their own territory opened the way for the high school win. The freshmen were required to make four downs on the last play within their own 20 yard line and elected to carry the ball instead of punt, and the high school held.

Roach, playing quarterback, played his best game of the season. He punted from 40 to 60 yards on nearly every attempt and ran the team well. Zussman and Breese also played well in the backfield.

The line, while quite a bit lighter than the freshmen, played the big school at least even and at times through for good gains. The teams were quite evenly matched, with the high school having a slight advantage.

Sport Views And News

The Badgers have got a football team. Saturday's game with Northwestern plainly showed that Coach Richards has developed a machine that is going to kick up a lot of rumpus in Western Conference gridiron circles. In the clash against the Evanstonians, the big red team showed plenty of punch and its defensive tactics were superb. There are still a few rough spots to rub off but those will be taken care of before the end of the week.

Look out for Iowa. The 11 to 2 defeat administered to the Illini by Coach Jones' squad makes them size up as the leading contenders for Big Ten honors. Zuppk's aggression fought to the final whistle but Iowa's big line turned them back at every stage of the argument. The Hawk eyes were never in serious danger and they held the upper hand from start to finish.

And the Navy twisted the Tiger's tail. Uncle Sam's soon-to-be sailors took a fall out of Princeton, 13 to 0. It was the big upset in eastern football. Princeton, champions of 1920, crumbled before the Navy's smashing attack and what's more the Tigers don't set the world on fire when it comes to rushing the ball. The reversal of the "New Jersey eleven" makes things look a whole lot brighter for Chicago in the game next Saturday against the Tigers.

Marinette by her 2 to 0 victory over East Green Bay and Antigo, who buried Rhineclander 78 to 0, Saturday, are the logical contenders for state scholastic gridiron honors. In this neck of the woods, Oshkosh still has an unbroken string but on dope the Sawdust city crew does not look as strong as either the Lumberjacks or Northerners. It is probable that Marinette and Antigo will be matched for a clash before their grid season is history.

One of the Milwaukee sport scribes bemoans the fact that the gridiron season is so short and that professional football is making great headway into the gridiron sport. We agree with him about the short season but can't see his wall about the professionals. Milwaukee is about the only big city that is not represented by an eleven in the pro game. One of these days, the Cream City fans will wake up to the fact that they are missing something and then probably this same writer will burst forth with columns of stuff boosting professional football.

WRESTLING TEAM TO BE ORGANIZED AT COLLEGE

Wrestling was started at Lawrence college last week when more than a dozen young men began preparations for the winter season. George Hill, heavyweight champ of Wisconsin, will train the collegians and is working out with the youngsters several times a week.

Thomas, one of the crack members of last year's team, is coaching this year's squad. Kubitz also is helping drill the men. It is said 25 or 30 grapplers will try for positions on the team.

PACKERS IN HARD FIGHT TO WHIP BELOIT FAIRIES

Green Bay Packers were forced to fight for every inch of their gains Sunday afternoon when they met and defeated the Beloit Fairies. The game ended 7 to 0. Beloit held the big Packers twice within the shadow of their goal posts. The Packers scored their touchdowns in the first period on a short pass over the goal line.

Cub Buck was the Packers' mainstay on defense. He broke up nearly every Beloit play and kept the visitors from seriously threatening the Packers' goal. It was the best game of the present season in Green Bay.

D'oro Made Fortune In Billiards

"Cultivate one talent! Even if you're endowed with more genius than is commonly given to man, specialize! Don't try to be an expert in everything!"

Alfred D'Oro speaking. The 60-year-old dean of all knights of the cue entered in the three-cushion billiard tourney now on in Pittsburgh was speaking from experience.

I had asked him why he hadn't taken up billiards earlier in his career. For 18 years the picturesque veteran of 40 years of battling on the green tables was a champion at pocket billiards. It was not until 1904 that he entered the field of competitors in the three cushion game.

Regrets Mixing
"I might have retained the title to this day if I hadn't tried to mix the two games," he told me. "So different is the mental attitude necessary for successful playing of the two games that when I tried to play both in the same week, my skill in both suffered."

There is nothing of the "wizard" about D'Oro. He is a grizzled, personable fellow, impressing one more as a staid and successful business man than as a constant contender for honors on the green cloth.

Quiet and homecoming, his one dislike for the life of a professional billiardist is the fact that it keeps him away from family and fireside. He has tables in his New York home where he does all his practicing. Love of the game he undoubtedly has, but more than that, it is business and livelihood to him.

Gift of Pension
When D'Oro won the last match with John Daly in 1917 in New York, the Cuban secretary of state cabled his congratulations from the government on behalf of the president, and later D'Oro was awarded a pension of $150 a month from the Cuban government in recognition of his work with the cue.

Wealthy in Cuban holdings when the Spanish-American War broke out, he saw his fortune swept away with the devastation of the island before Uncle Sam rescued his countrymen from the Spaniards. Then the cue became the lever by which he raised himself and his family from threatened poverty to comfort in his New York home.

Cleared $200,000
The clicking ivory have meant for him more than $200,000 in money and prizes, and keen of eye, steady of nerve and of a temperance that keeps him young and vigorous, he still remains a figure to be reckoned with in the deciding of billiard championships.

Constable Shoots At Mays for Speeding

Wrestling was started at Lawrence college last week when more than a dozen young men began preparations for the winter season. George Hill, heavyweight champ of Wisconsin, will train the collegians and is working out with the youngsters several times a week.

Thomas, one of the crack members of last year's team, is coaching this year's squad. Kubitz also is helping drill the men. It is said 25 or 30 grapplers will try for positions on the team.

PACKERS IN HARD FIGHT TO WHIP BELOIT FAIRIES
Green Bay Packers were forced to fight for every inch of their gains Sunday afternoon when they met and defeated the Beloit Fairies. The game ended 7 to 0. Beloit held the big Packers twice within the shadow of their goal posts. The Packers scored their touchdowns in the first period on a short pass over the goal line.

Cub Buck was the Packers' mainstay on defense. He broke up nearly every Beloit play and kept the visitors from seriously threatening the Packers' goal. It was the best game of the present season in Green Bay.

Constable Shoots At Mays for Speeding
York, Pa.—Carl Mays, pitcher of the New York American league team, was arrested for speeding on Sunday after pursuit by a constable, who fired shots from a revolver at him. The baseball player, it is alleged, assaulted C. E. Erhardt, who was assisting the officer. Mays posted $27.50 for his appearance before Burgess Abel Monday night.

Mays, with his wife, was going toward York. Constable Horn, after taking a fall out of Princeton, 13 to 0. It was the big upset in eastern football. Princeton, champions of 1920, crumbled before the Navy's smashing attack and what's more the Tigers don't set the world on fire when it comes to rushing the ball. The reversal of the "New Jersey eleven" makes things look a whole lot brighter for Chicago in the game next Saturday against the Tigers.

Marinette by her 2 to 0 victory over East Green Bay and Antigo, who buried Rhineclander 78 to 0, Saturday, are the logical contenders for state scholastic gridiron honors. In this neck of the woods, Oshkosh still has an unbroken string but on dope the Sawdust city crew does not look as strong as either the Lumberjacks or Northerners. It is probable that Marinette and Antigo will be matched for a clash before their grid season is history.

One of the Milwaukee sport scribes bemoans the fact that the gridiron season is so short and that professional football is making great headway into the gridiron sport. We agree with him about the short season but can't see his wall about the professionals. Milwaukee is about the only big city that is not represented by an eleven in the pro game. One of these days, the Cream City fans will wake up to the fact that they are missing something and then probably this same writer will burst forth with columns of stuff boosting professional football.

Alfred D'Oro, dean of Knights of the Cue.

D'Oro was born in Manzanilla, Cuba, 60 years ago. He came to the United States when 10, but never has relinquished his touch with the home island. At intervals he has gone back to Cuba, sometimes for four years at a stretch, and seldom a year passes that he does not spend several months in the homeland.

Frank and engaging, and a pal to the younger aspirants for billiard fame, D'Oro's popularity is easily accounted for. His appearance on the tournament floor always brings applause, and even when he is not a contender, his fame and his personality mean much to the "gate."

SCHULTZ AGAIN BEATS STEVENSON IN MOUND DUEL

Oshkosh Loses by 2 to 1 Count in Thrilling Game Sunday Afternoon

Leater Stevenson's ambition to end the 1921 baseball season by defeating the Brands in their own backyard went glimmering in the sixth inning of Sunday's game, the last of the season, when two hits and an error scored two runs for the Appleton crowd. Oshkosh scored one run in the first inning and the count at the end of the fracas was 2 to 1.

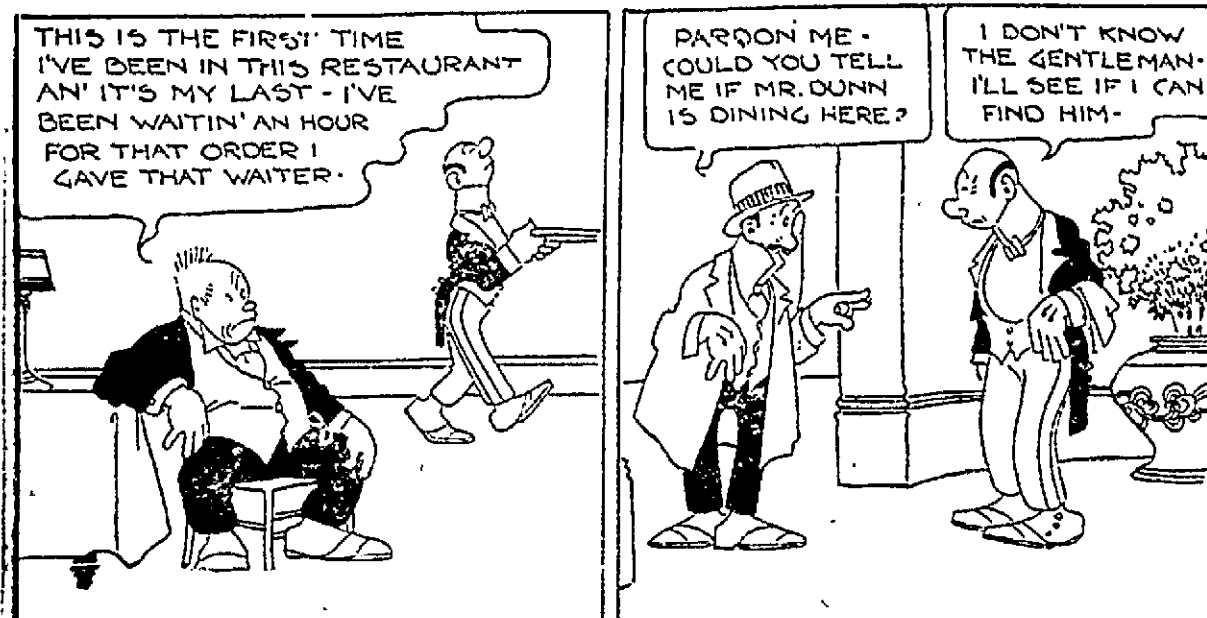

Opportunity hits and daring baserunning gave the two runs to the Brands. Brautigan started the inning by whiffing and T. Lamers followed with a single through shortstop and stole second while Doering was whiffing. Luedtke then stung a single to rightfield and Lamers rushed home. Sylvester winged the ball from right to Burke at the plate but the latter dropped the pelet just as he was putting it on Lamers. Luedtke hurried to second on the play. The score made Stevenson nervous and he walked M. Lamers. After Wood had struck twice at Stevenson's offerings Luedtke dashed for third, sliding into the bag and wrenching his knee. Runkles throw to catch the runner went bad and Luedtke limped to the plate, collapsing just as he touched the rubber. The game was delayed for a few minutes while first aid was applied to the injured player and then Wood grounded out.

Oshkosh scored its only tally in the first inning when Boettge romped all the way home on a single. He breezed a grounder to Beyer in leftfield but the ball got away and rolled to the fence. Boettge dashed around the path and beat the throw home.

The game was a tight pitcher's duel with Schultz having slightly the better of the argument. He allowed only six hits and two of those were scratches while Stevenson was touched for seven. Both men were in tight places a few times but Schultz seemed to be the steeper. Both hurlers struck out eight men.

Today

By Douglas Malloch Sure, this world is full of trouble - aint said it aint.

Lord! I've had enough an' double Reason for complaint.

Rain and storm have come to fret me. Skies were often gray;

Thorns and brambles have beset me. On the road-but say, Aint it fine today?

What's the use of always weepin'. Makin' trouble last? What's the use of always keepin' Thinkin' of the past?

Each must have his tribulation. Water with his wine; Life it aint no celebration. Trouble! I've had mine- But today is fine.

It's today that I am livin'. Not a month ago. Havin', losin', takin', givin'. As time wills it so. Yesterday a cloud of sorrow Fell across the way;

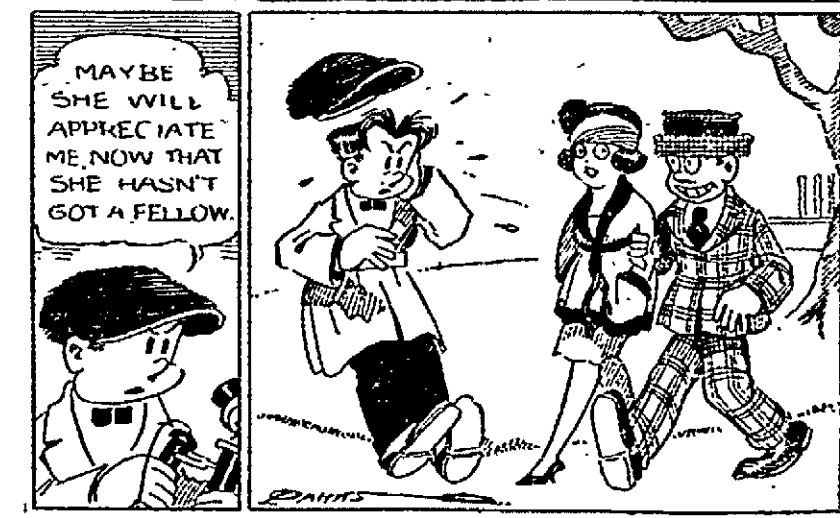

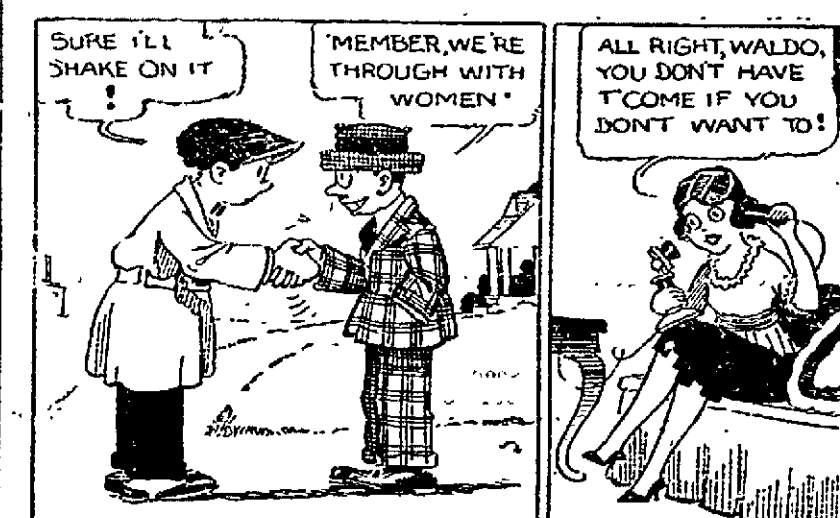

It may rain again tomorrow. It may rain-but say, Aint it fine today?

BIG WHEAT RESERVE
DEPRESSES MARKET

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago—Grains, especially wheat, took big declines on the Chicago board of trade today.

The government report on visible wheat supplies, which showed there is a great increase in the amount of grain held in elevators over last year influenced the market. Reports that over 2,000,000 bushels of grain a day were being sold in Canada brought prices down here. Letting up on the export demand had a tendency to lower the market also. Provisions were irregular.

BUSINESS SURE TO GET BETTER AS FARMERS BUY

Return to normalcy in the farming industry and the resultant improvement of business in other activities is reported by the sales department of the U. S. Tractor and Machinery Co. of Menasha which has just received an order for four carloads of tractors from France, another larger order from other European countries and orders from seven states.

The tractor company officials believe that these orders indicate that farmers are looking forward to more prosperous times and that business is bound to improve when the farmers began spending their money.

URGES PERSONAL FIGHT AGAINST
VACCINATION LAW

Chiropractors in Convention
Here Told That Vaccination Law is Unfair

Chiropractors of the eastern and northeastern district of the Wisconsin Chiropractors association were urged to make a personal fight against compulsory vaccination by Dr. Fred Lundy of Marshfield, secretary of the Wisconsin Chiropractors association at the district meeting at Hotel Sherman on Sunday. More than 45 chiropractors were in attendance at the sessions of which Dr. W. W. Griggs of Fond du Lac was chairman.

Dr. Lundy said that as an organization the chiropractors could not fight vaccination but urged every chiropractic practitioner to make a personal fight. He said: "We as individuals should support the American Medical Liberty League with every dollar we can spare for no group or clique of healers has a right to compel me to have my children vaccinated against my will. A man's body is his own and he should retain his constitutional rights to choose the politics, religion and healer he wants and no man made laws have the right to take that privilege from him."

The speaker urged that all chiropractors do all in their power to spread the educational publicity concerning their practice. He told of the growth of the profession from the idea of Dr. D. D. Palmer 26 years ago to a science with over 13,000 practicing chiropractors.

Other speakers included Dr. George Arisman, the state president and Dr. A. G. Toohy of Oshkosh. The state convention will be held in Milwaukee at Hotel Wisconsin Jan. 15-17. A monthly paper to be known as the Badger Chiropractor was started at the convention. Dr. C. D. Hotchkiss of Beaver Dam was elected president. Dr. James Rolfe of Appleton had charge of the arrangements.

The following attended the meeting: Fred G. Lundy, Marshfield; E. J. Porter, A. P. Stark, Dr. Showalter, Drs. Reese and Reese, George Arisman, Milwaukee; J. R. Brithaupt, Horicon; C. D. Hotchkiss, Beaver Dam; E. H. H. Ripon; A. H. Baker, Waupun; Robinson and Robinson, Kiel; M. M. Backers, Chilton; A. D. Frantz, Plymouth; W. E. Griggs, Hester and Hester, Fond du Lac; A. G. Toohy, H. Mrs. McCumber Avoided a Serious Operation by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Georgetown, Ill.—"After my first baby was born I suffered so with my left side that I could not walk across the floor unless I was all humped over, and I don't know how long it lasted. I consulted with several doctors but found no relief and they said I would have to have an operation. My mother insisted on my taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I soon found relief. Now I can do all my own work and it has saved me from an operation. I cannot praise your medicine too highly and I tell all of my friends and neighbors what the Compound did for me."

Mrs. McCumber, 27 S. Frazier st., Georgetown, Illinois.

Mrs. McCumber is one of the unnumbered thousands of women who struggle to keep about their daily tasks, while suffering from ailments peculiar to women with backache, sideaches, headaches, bearing-down pains and nervousness—and every such woman should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

There's A Skeleton
In Your Closet

The skeleton—IT HANGS ON A HOOK in your closet.

Or HIDDEN AWAY in the ATTIC. Or in an old, unused trunk, somewhere about the house.

You call it, perhaps, your "SPARE SUIT"—a coat you have outgrown, a dress that is no longer in style. You call it that—BECAUSE YOU DO NOT UNDERSTAND.

When you read, in the papers every day, how, over in ARMENIA, in RUSSIA, in POLAND, little helpless children, and tottering old men and women, are desperately covering their EMACIATED BODIES with strips of rags and burlap bags, you cannot then help but feel that THESE EXTRA CLOTHES OF YOURS—clothes you do not now need and may never wear again—are "SKELETONS IN YOUR CLOSET."

Your conscience will help you find them.

Then—BUNDLE THEM OUT!
